Standing firmly together

RESPECT: council leader Denise Hyland is joined by councillors and local residents to sign the book of condolence in Woolwich town hall

PEOPLE in the royal borough have been demonstrating their solidarity with the citizens of Paris by signing a book of condolence.

Community and faith leaders expressed their shock and outrage following the terrorist attacks and a commitment to stand together against the atrocities was top of the agenda at the start of local events for Inter-faith Week which started last Monday.

A book of condolence opened at Woolwich Town Hall in Wellington Street on the same day, and people are invited to add their messages of support to the French people during weekday opening hours between 9am and 5.30pm.

Cllr Denise Hyland, the leader of the council, wrote to the mayor of Paris, saying: "Here in Greenwich we are, sadly, all too familiar with the experience of having a savage terrorist attack take place in the heart of our community.

She added: "Our thoughts are with our French residents during this time of mourning, as well as everyone who has been affected by other recent terrorist attacks such as those in Turkey, Beirut and in Nigeria."

The terrorist outrages were discussed at a question-and-answer session organised last Tuesday by Charlton Athletic Community Trust (CACT) during Inter-faith Week which took place between November 15-21.

The discussion panel was made up of representatives from local community

Thanks to home improvement team

I WOULD like to express my thanks to the council's disability and home improvement team for adapting my bathroom into a wet room, as my health and mobility have deteriorated in recent years. In particular, I am grateful to the occupational therapist attached to the team and the building surveyor was extremely helpful and polite taking my needs into account when preparing the plans for the adaptations. Every member of staff involved in this project deserves my grateful thanks and I hope that the royal borough is proud of its wonderful staff

Facts about flu vaccine

IN the November 3 issue of GT, Councillor Scott-Macdonald is quoted as advocating this winter's flu jab. Are you aware of the facts about this vaccine? Because of the multiplicity of wild strains and the phenomenon of ceaseless mutation, the flu vaccine is highly ineffective and can cause drastic neurological damage. I would be grateful if you could encourage GT to inform Greenwich residents of the facts so that the choice to have a jab is properly founded and consent given on an informed basis.

MPaul Ursell, Woolwich

● A council spokesperson said: "Every year people at risk of severe complications and even death if they catch flu are advised to take up the offer of a free flu jab through the NHS. No vaccine is 100% effective and as with all medical interventions, there is always a risk that a small number of people may experience an adverse reaction. This risk is, however, far outweighed by the protection the vaccination offers for vulnerable people, such as young children, the elderly and people with long-term health conditions. Every year national experts identify the strains of flu most commonly circulating and engineer a vaccine to have the maximum protective effect. It is not the case that flu vaccine is likely to cause 'drastic neurological damage'."

Peninsula plan passed

RIVERSIDE NEIGHBOURHOOD: a computer graphic shows how the new district could look

PLANS to regenerate the Greenwich Peninsula, bringing thousands of new jobs and homes to the borough, have been given the go-ahead.

In August, the royal borough gave outline planning permission for the site, which runs along the River Thames. Now the Mayor of London has given approval to the masterplan for nearly 13,000 homes. It will create 12,000 jobs on the site of the previously disused gasworks, which will create an entire new district formed of five neighbourhood zones. Cllr Danny Thorpe, the cabinet member for regeneration and transport, said: "The council has long held a vision to make the most of the huge potential offered by the Greenwich Peninsula.

"We are particularly proud that, at a time of critical housing shortage, this development will deliver so many affordable homes, of which more than two-thirds will be for social rent, at no more than 50% of market rent."

The scheme is set to become the largest regeneration project in London - plans include the demolition and rebuild of the North Greenwich tube and bus station, 220 serviced apartments, 24,000 square metres of retail space, 60,000 square metres of business use, two new schools and two new hotels. The development will also feature a 40,000 square metre film studio, visitor attraction and increased green open space, including an extension to the existing Central Park.

Funeral of young people's supporter

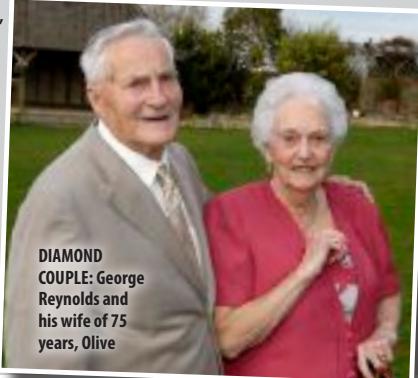

A MAN who spent 54 years of his life helping and supporting young people locally has died, at the age of 96.

George Reynolds OBE passed away on November 11. He was awarded the Freedom of the Royal Borough of Greenwich in March, 2012, in recognition of his voluntary work in the community, particularly for children and young people. He was a youth leader with the YMCA Woolwich from 1955 to 1984.

He served in the Army for seven years, seeing active service in the Second World War, leaving with the rank of Colour Sergeant Major. He was awarded the OBE in 1988, and in 2000 he was given the Greenwich Millennium Award for service to youth in the borough.

He is survived by Olive, his wife of 75 years, and sons Alan, Ian and Paul, and daughter Jill. His funeral is today (Tuesday November 24), at the West Chapel, Falconwood Crematorium, at 10.45am.

The family have requested no flowers, but donations can be made to Demelza Hospice for the care of children at www.justgiving.com/George-Reynolds1

Appeal for street performers

ALL the world's a stage, according to Shakespeare - and in Woolwich, that includes the town centre.

A project encouraging performers to help celebrate local high streets is looking for entertainers to come forward.

The Streets uses music and performance to inspire an interest in, and a passion for, shopping centres across seven London boroughs.

The council is encouraging local musicians and performers to use Woolwich as their own cultural and artistic platform. It is keen to hear from groups and performers who are interested in taking part in pop-up performances in Woolwich on December 4 & 5 and during 2016. Performances should be between five and 30 minutes long, suitable for families and audiences of all cultural backgrounds, portable and able to set up and take down within 10 minutes.

● If you are interested email arts@royalgreenwich.gov.uk to request an expression of interest form with 'The Streets - Woolwich Performers' in the subject line.

'We are one community' and faith groups and Cllr Denise Scott-McDonald, the royal borough's cabinet member for community wellbeing and public health.

When asked 'what does a multi-faith society mean to you?' Col John Grinstead, the army's Deputy Chief of Staff, London District said: "Tolerance. Together we have to be respectful for other people's point of view."

Imam Ali Omar from the Greenwich Islamic Centre and Armed Forces Muslim Forum, said: "The way we dress, eat and celebrate is different in every faith. Lots of richness has been gained in living in a multi-faith society."

The Rev Erica Wooff, the Rector of Charlton United Benefice, said the question-and-answer session had been timely, adding: "Multi-faith in Greenwich is a powerful thing, and we should be proud of our community."

There was also strong reaction from leaders of other faith groups who stressed the need for unity amongst the many nations in the borough.

A statement from Greenwich Islamic Centre read: "We must not let these acts cause division in our communities and we call upon everyone to be united and stand against this heinous attack."

Saeed Ahmad, Vice Chair of Greenwich Peninsula Chaplaincy Service, Trustee of Greenwich Mosque and member of the Greenwich Faith Leaders' Forum, said: "The entire Muslim community in Greenwich is saddened and shocked by what happened in Paris. We condemn such violence, which is against Islam, against the Muslim religion and against humanity. The local Muslim community is made up of law-abiding citizens and we have very good relationships with other communities, faiths and religions within the borough – something that we are committed to maintaining."

Dr Tariq Abbasi, the Secretary General of the World Muslim Congress and former director of the Greenwich Islamic Centre in Plumstead Road, said: "There is nothing in the religion of Islam which compels people to commit such terrible crimes. We have a common enemy, and we have a common goal to eradicate all criminals who commit crimes in the name of our religion."

Rev Mike Leader, chair of Ecumenical Borough Deans in Greenwich, said: "We were all, whether people of faith or none, shocked by the horrific events in Paris on Friday. Our hearts and prayers go out to the victims and their loved ones. Christians believe that nothing in creation can separate us from God's love and we will continue to work with all people of good will to oppose evil and promote peace and reconciliation in our broken world."

Revd Margaret Cave, Team Rector, East Greenwich Team Ministry, added: "People of faith are people of peace and people of prayer. As Christians we choose to stand together in love for only love overcomes hate and evil."

New nursery for Waterways

COUNCILLOR John Fahy, deputy leader of the royal borough and cabinet member for children's services joined staff and parents at Waterways Children's Centre on November 10 to celebrate the launch of a new 36-place nursery for two-year-olds (pictured).

The opening celebration gave families an opportunity to enjoy the nursery's indoor and outdoor play facilities.

It's one of ten centres operated by GLL on behalf of the royal borough. Waterways Children's Centre is housed in a dedicated building for two-year-olds known as 'The Island'. It offers nursery care for children aged two years who are entitled to three hours free childcare through the council's Together for Twos scheme.

Cllr Fahy said: "Our children's centres continue to offer a wide range of services that make a vital difference to the lives of young children and their families. This new nursery for two-year-olds is the latest in a series of improvements and will be greatly welcomed by local families in Abbey Wood and Thamesmead."

A new heart for the community

A THRIVING new community hub in the heart of West Greenwich received its official opening last week.

Boasting over 100 new homes, over 300 student apartments, space for start up businesses and a new hotel, the development called The Movement was officially opened by U+I, a leading property regeneration company.

The former industrial site next to Greenwich DLR and mainland station has been given a new lease of life creating a mixed-use development that has injected £275m in economic growth over ten years and created 156 jobs in the local area. The chosen street name 'Lovibond' pays tribute to the Lovibond family, who founded a brewery next to the 2.2 acres site in 1847.

The launch on November 12 also saw the unveiling of a landmark piece of artwork called 'Shipping Good', created by artist Morag Myerscough which comprises a bespoke poem etched into the street written by renowned poet Lemn Sissay - official poet of the London 2012 Games.

Council leader Denise Hyland said: "The Movement development demonstrates the ability to integrate a number of competing uses successfully together to deliver a high-quality, mixed-use development. This is important to retaining our established businesses but also in supporting new business start-ups in the borough. Alongside these uses are educational facilities to assist in the delivery of skills for borough residents. Overall, this development retains employment and contributes towards the creation of new jobs in the borough."

Richard Upton, deputy CEO of U+I said: "This development is a fantastic example of how a creative mixed use development can enable a living, breathing community to be created on a small, compact site that will deliver real and sustainable social and economic growth."

FREE confidential HIV testing and advice on sexual health are on offer for Greenwich Sexual Health Week. Royal borough public health staff will also be offering Chlamydia screening for Under 25s and free condoms to encourage residents to take control of their sexual health and wellbeing.

The royal borough was the first local authority in the country to offer residents a home testing service online - making it easy and quick to test for sexually transmitted infections including HIV in the comfort of their homes. A growing number of residents are using the service and it is being promoted, along with a range of a range of sexual health services as part of the week, which runs until December 1 - World AIDS Day.

THE annual Eltham Lights Up celebration kick started the royal borough's festive events last Thursday. GT reviews the night time carnival and gets a glimpse of what's coming up. Full details at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/events

LOCAL shops and businesses stayed open late to welcome shoppers in search of Christmas gifts at the annual Eltham Lights Up celebration last week (November 19).

Thousands of local people turned out to enjoy the festivities there were fun filled activities, music and performances to warm everyone on a chilly evening. The town centre's Christmas lights were switched on by Eltham MP Clive Efford, the Mayor Cllr Norman Adams and council leader Denise Hyland. Then pupils from local schools displayed the lanterns they had made for the annual parade. There were also many music performances from local acts whilst roving street performers entertained and delighted visitors.

The event coincided with the launch of the borough's new Greenwich One Card and residents flocked to sign up for membership at the Eltham Centre. The card gives all-in-one access to library and leisure services as well as deals and discounts at many local shops and businesses.

Cllr Miranda Williams, the borough's cabinet member for culture and creative industries, said: "Since its start Eltham Lights Up is seen as the traditional launch of the festive season locally. The launch of the new Greenwich One Card this year is an added bonus for both festive shoppers and local businesses as it will help local people to get the best deals by shopping locally and highlight all that local shops and traders have to offer."

Unity festival's silver lining

YOUNG people from London's different faith and cultural communities will come together next week for a lantern-lit procession through Greenwich Park.

Organised on the 60th anniversary of Rosa Parks' bus ride in Montgomery, Alabama, that sparked the civil rights movement in the US southern states, the event will launch the Silver Threads Festival planned for next year.

The walk is planned to start at around 6pm on Tuesday, December 1 at the entrance gate to Greenwich Park and will finish about half-an-hour later at the Royal Observatory. Among those due to be taking part is Cllr Miranda Williams, the council's cabinet member for culture and creative industries.

Once at the observatory, people will be invited to send a prepared message on Twitter, which organisers hope will be re-tweeted to start a chain of responses nationally and even further afield – they are already in contact with the Montgomery Bus Boycott veterans in Alabama who are being invited to respond.

The main festival will be held in June 2016 and will include a series of events taking place at the same time in each international time zone, creating the 'Silver Thread' around the world. The theme of the festival is based on The Heartstone Odyssey, a story spanning 250 years of history to the present day and involving characters from many different cultures.

Sitakumari, director of Heartstone which is organising the festival, said: "Given recent events, this has even more relevance as it brings together people across nationalities, cultures, faiths, races and backgrounds to recognise a common humanity."

A NEW spin on Dickens' traditional tale of A Christmas Carol comes to Shrewsbury House next month.

Written and performed by Natalie Wilcox, this production by Front Room Theatre has specially composed music along with "a multi-sensory experience", including the delicious smell of mulled wine.

The audience will also be invited to become part of the performance and throw 'snowballs' and sing along to some of the music.

Although she has no formal training as a writer, Natalie has written for Front Room before and recently enjoyed positive reviews for her last play, Lie Back and Think of America, in which she also acted.

She told Scene: "In the writing of the script I have retained a lot of the Victorian style of dialogue while replacing some of Dickens' criticisms of society at the time with more contemporary references."

A Christmas Carol will be performed at the community centre in Bushmoor Crescent, Shooters Hill on Saturdays, December 12 and 19 at 7.30pm with Natalie taking the part of Scrooge and other roles, and the story narrated by Sarah Barrowman.

Tickets cost £10, £8 concs - www.ticketsource.co.uk/frontroomtheatre or call the box office on 020 7207 0296. Greenwich Theatre has already started performances of its festive production, with Red Riding Hood taking to the boards last weekend.

BIDDING FOR PROPERTIES

People on the Housing register are able to bid for all properties, regardless of their banding. You must be eligible for the size of property and bids will be considered in the following order:

First Band A, followed by Band B both in priority date order.

Those in Band C will then be considered in registration date order.

Please note that there will still be some properties with age restrictions so only people of this age group can apply for these.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free at either The Eltham or Woolwich Centre or a local library.

Apply in one of three ways

- Text bidding is now available and the number to use is 07786207913. For further information please see page 2, or
- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

The next edition of GreenwichHomes will be available on Wednesday 2 December 2015 at midday. Closing date for all applications for this issue is midnight on Sunday 29 November 2015.

Small is beautiful the Under Occupation scheme

If you are living in a Council property that is too big for you, we can help you to move to somewhere smaller. The Council will pay your removal costs, and £350 for each bedroom gained.

To join the scheme you must be willing to move to a home with two bedrooms less than you have now:

- 3 bedroom to a 1 bedroom home
- 3 bedroom parlour/4 bedroom to a 1 or 2 bedroom home
- 5 bedroom to a 3 bedroom (or smaller) home

First step on the road to Rio

SPORTING STARS: Jacquie Beltrao interviews the Rio hopefuls, inset Steve Davis is a guest speaker, Steve and Zoe

by Simon Banks

YOUNG athletes are taking their first steps on the road to Rio for the Olympic and Paralympic Games next summer – thanks to support from Greenwich Starting Blocks.

Gymnast Ellis O'Reilly, Commonwealth Gold medallist Zoe Smith and paralympic swimmer Susie Rodgers who are all setting their sights on success at next year's games, outlined their aspirations at a fundraising gala dinner earlier this month.

Talented young athletes from around the borough were celebrated during the event at The O2 on November 12. It was hosted by former Olympic gymnast and Sky Sports presenter Jacquie Beltrao, who was joined by snooker legend Steve Davis OBE. Steve, who hails from Plumstead won 71 major titles including six World Championships during his career.

The event raised thousands for the charity, which currently supports 78 young athletes with the costs of training and competing.

The charity supported Olympic Silver medallist Gemma Gibbons from Charlton, and Abbey Wood weightlifter Zoe Smith who both competed in the 2012 games.

Peter Bunsey, chair of Greenwich Starting Blocks Trust, thanked contributors and sponsors for their donations and said: "We would like to thank everyone who has helped to provide essential funding to enable the scheme to develop. We look forward to celebrating our athletes' success in 2016 and at the Olympic and Paralympic Games in Rio."
